

Welcome New Safety Team!

Posted by: "Jason Mettmann"

Wed Feb 8, 2012 3:48 pm (PST)

Good Afternoon Utah Wing,

Please join me in welcoming 3 new members to the Utah Wing Safety Team!

Capt. Jonathan Todd, FO Tyler Budd, and Cadet CMSgt Brett Coleman have stepped up to serve on our team.

Capt. Todd's extensive experience with hands-on mission safety will be a great resource for helping Utah Wing develop a base of knowledgeable Mission Safety Officers. We look forward to a "Safety Saturday" in March, where MSO's will be able to check off SQTR tasks.

FO Budd's employment experience with Fire/EMS will add critical knowledge to our team, and will help us better mitigate risks in all of our missions. Bodily injury mishaps are a big problem for CAP all across the nation. I look forward to FO Budd sharing his expertise with us.

Cadet Coleman will serve as the Wing Cadet Safety Officer. This is a new program that was recently started by the NHQ Safety Team. Cadets at all levels are encouraged to become more involved with their unit's safety programs. Cadet Coleman brings his cadet leadership skills learned at encampments, flight activities, squadron staff, and even national activities. Cadet Coleman will serve as another set of eyes and ears within Utah's Cadet Program and help us analyze trends, and provide liaisons between the wing safety team and the cadet command structures throughout the wing.

FYI: Utah is leading the way in safety compliance nationwide! Keep up the great work.

Capt. Jason Mettmann
UTWG Director of Safety
